| Reason            | Painless enlarging neck swelling for 2 months with drenching night sweats and 6 kg weight loss.                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Note              | Please evaluate the right cervical lymphadenopathy and advise oncology management.                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Attached          | Excisional lymph node biopsy report, PET-CT report.                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
